

CABLES OF STATION X BROKEN BY WORKMEN

The remote control system of Station X was put out of commission Wednesday when workmen on the Columbia avenue improvement smashed underground cables used in transmission along E. Third street. The control system runs from Station X in City Hall to the transmitter in Eden Park.

During the temporary disruption operators at Station X were forced to telephone messages to the transmitter and they were put on the air from the park.