

* * *

WITHIN TWO YEARS, Cincinnati police cars will be stripped of their two-way radios. It won't leave police incommunicado. The car radios will all be replaced by pocket-size transistorized walkie-talkies. Each man will be issued one as regular equipment, just like a badge, nightstick, and gun. He'll be in constant touch with Station X wherever he goes, in or out of his car.

* * *